

• 5 Reasons to Consider Global Dividend Growth ETF (GDVD)

- 1. Current Income. The first stated goal of GDVD is to provide current income through dividends. At the moment, stock dividends are taxed more advantageously than bond coupons and interest on bank deposits.
- 2. Growth of Income. The second stated goal of GDVD is long-term growth of income. The fund actively pursues companies that the advisor believes has the willingness and ability to pay and grow their dividend over time. This is never more important than when investors consider that inflation eats away at their fixed income over time.
- 3. Capital Appreciation. The third goal of GDVD is long-term growth of capital. The fund does not necessarily seek the highest dividend paying stocks, but rather those with healthy balance sheets, industry leaders, and yes...growth.
- 4. Diversification. – GDVD invests in companies around the world to seek out the best opportunities. Furthermore, the managers will consider stocks of any size, and are agnostic as to whether they are growth or value.
- 5. Experience. – Lately there has been a fascination with new ways to get rich, be it fixer-uppers or invisible coins. We are fascinated by the amount of “experts” there are in a relatively short period of time. Our portfolio manager, Cliff Remily, has been managing portfolios for both growth and income as well as growth OF income, for nearly 20 years. We believe that: There is value in experience!

The Adviser has not previously served as an adviser to an ETF, although its portfolio managers and management have extensive experience with ETFs. As a result, there is no long-term track record against which an investor may judge the Adviser and it is possible the Adviser may not achieve the Fund's intended investment objective.

Investing involves risk including loss of principal.
